Apart from all the household work, she also used to look after his handicapped child. Whenever Roshan demanded for her wages, the doctor refused and said that he would give next month. Seven years passed. One day Roshan insisted him to give her wages but the doctor misbehaved with her and started acting very harshly. Ultimately Roshan left her job and approached the Samooch of her village. The Samooch members visited the doctor's residence and pressurized him to pay the entire wages or he should be prepared to face the music. Realizing the intensity of situation, the doctor agreed to pay the wage of all seven years which came out to be Rs 36000/-. Roshan today is living happily with her parents.
